

← Tweet

Jay Cummings
@LongFormMath

When you make two sign errors in your math homework but they perfectly cancel each other out

4:08 PM · Oct 5, 2022 · Twitter for iPhone

20 Retweets 160 Likes

Tweet your reply

Reply

Abraham Mekonnen @asimplemech · 1h
Replying to @LongFormMath

Michael Lugo @miclugo · 1h
Replying to @LongFormMath

This Tweet is from an account you muted.

View

Benjamin Dickman (🔑📧) @benjamindickman · 1h
Replying to @LongFormMath
16/64 cancel the sixes

🌟 same energy 🌟

Dr Peyam @drpeyam · 43m
Replying to @LongFormMath
My advisor always says "make sure to make an even number of sign mistakes"

pikuma.com @pikuma · 1m

🔍 Search Twitter

Relevant people

Jay Cummings
@LongFormMath

Following

Math prof @SacState. Author of long-form textbooks on proofs (amzn.to/3oZrMNU) & real analysis (amzn.to/2kqvMwh). Combinatorics research. He/him.

What's happening

Politics · 2 hours ago

Kamala Harris' comments following Hurricane Ian have been taken out of context, fact-checkers report

Trending

Netanyahu
9,056 Tweets

Trending

Melitopol
1,997 Tweets

The Wall Street J... · 2 hours ago
Investigation finds that chess grandmaster 'likely cheated' more than 100 times

Daily Mail Online · This morning
How Ukraine could achieve victory against Russia, according to experts

Show more

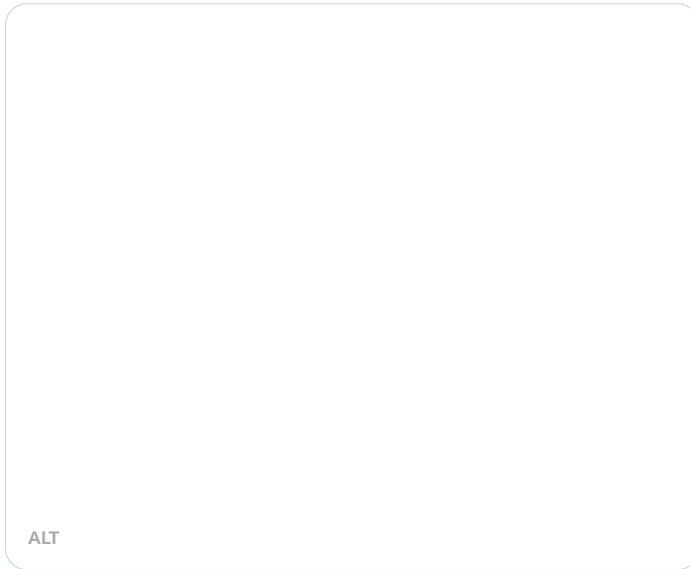

Terms of Service Privacy Policy Cookie Policy
Accessibility Ads info More ...
© 2022 Twitter, Inc.

Messages

Replying to @LongFormMath

Search Twitter

ALT

Messages

